

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

Please find attached the programme for this year's meeting of the Welsh Philosophical Society, which takes place at Gregynog Hall from Friday 22nd to Sunday 24th April, 2016. If you would like to attend the meeting please complete and return the form below electronically, and send the requisite payment. The deadline for registration is Monday 7th March, but I would advise booking as early as possible. New procedures at Gregynog mean that we are only guaranteed a limited number of places. While I am hopeful that we will be able to accommodate everyone who wishes to attend there is no guarantee of that. If the meeting is over-subscribed priority will be given to those who register first. (And the sooner I have a good idea of numbers the greater are the chances of Gregynog having the places we need.)

I am afraid there has again been some, fairly modest, increase in the cost of registration. (The increase would be substantially greater were it not for very generous support from the British Wittgenstein Society and University of Wales Trinity St David.) The registration fee covers full bed and board from afternoon tea on Friday to morning coffee on Sunday. If you do not fall clearly into any of the three categories listed, if you will be coming for less than the full period, or if you are a postgraduate from outside Wales, please contact me before making payment. It may be possible to make limited adjustments to rates to reflect individual circumstances. Please note that I am unable to register anyone until I have received payment. Note also that if you have to cancel I will only be able to refund your payment if I am able to fill your place.

In the Friday evening session Danièle Moyal-Sharrock and Hugh Knott will introduce a discussion of Norman Malcolm's paper 'Wittgenstein: The relation of language to instinctive behaviour' and Rush Rhees's response to it, 'Language as emerging from instinctive behaviour'. Copies of these papers will be circulated in advance to participants.

Travel information on the Gregynog website: <http://www.wales.ac.uk/en/Home.aspx>. If you have any questions, about travel or anything else, please contact me. If you are coming by train your station is Newtown (Powys). If you are arriving at Newtown at 14.04, and possibly at 16.05, there may well be someone offering a lift. If you let me know your arrival time I will try to coordinate lifts.

If you know of people who you think might like to attend please feel free to forward this notice to them. You might also let me have their e-mail addresses, so that I can add them to future mailings.

I look forward to seeing you in April.

Best wishes,

David
